PLATFORMS exhibition @ Bett Gallery

Mountain folds quiver and react in sharp angles...

"In my work, I make small, densely rendered figurative paintings populated with elaborate vegetable and mineral configurations. Awkward and erect, the tree forms are resentful of the way they have been rearranged and singled out, pruned and reshaped. Mountain folds quiver and react in sharp angles and dark shadows at having been flattened and repurposed. Watery tarns peer mournfully outwards, and rocks breathe in as they hold together their unnatural shapes. The paint film suspends the actors in motion, cutting short clandestine meetings, collective festivities, and mutinous stirrings to disrupt the limits of the picture plane. My work is informed by an ongoing interest in animism, speculative fiction, and psychoanalytic self-scrutiny."
